

Travel and Nature Journaling Workshop with Lee D'Zmura

DATES: Oct. 6th and Oct. 13th 2010 (Wednesdays)
TIME: 9:30 am to 3:30 pm
PLACE: Christ Church Parish Hall, St. Michaels, MD

Course Description

This two-day workshop is an introduction to the increasingly popular past time of travel and nature journaling. Creating your own personal journal to preserve special life experiences provides a one-of-a-kind souvenir of those times that cannot be duplicated. Workshop participants will be introduced to various techniques to allow you to quickly and spiritedly record experiences and places as they are happening. Emphasis will be placed on initial sketches, text and color rendering using a variety of media -- but your own creativity will definitely come into play as you develop your journal. Each journal will be unique, and that will be both the challenge and the fun part. Whether you visited Rehobeth or Rome, how great would it be to have a personal journal of your travels to look back on, instead of those photos in the box that you never look at?

The Instructor

Lee D'Zmura is one of SMAL's most popular instructors who always brings out the best in every student and provides important personal attention. In addition, she brings years of experience and training in botanical illustration and watercolor, which makes this workshop a must for any artist wishing to not only capture events and special moments on site, but to do so in a way that truly reflects their individuality as an artist.

Attendance is limited, and this will be a popular workshop. Don't hesitate to sign up early to learn how to get started in this creative and personal way of capturing those special moments.
